Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Wednesday 21 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Frost overnight. Dry with long sunny spells.

Today:
Frosty start, then dry and bright, with long sunny spells and light winds. Cloudier around the far north with a few showers for the Northern Isles. Feeling quite pleasant in the sunshine.

Tonight:
Dry with clear skies for much of Scotland, more in the way of cloud and a few showers for the Northern Isles. Light winds and a frost is likely.

Thursday:
Mainly dry and bright with sunny spells, but rather cool. Cloudier for much of northern Scotland later with a few showers at times over the Northern Isles.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Settled conditions continuing with light winds, most seeing plenty of sunshine. Possibly more cloud and some showers or patchy rain on Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.